ABOUT ME

A standing innovator, who has equipped herself through the dedication of not just being a tech savvy, but a mentor at best. As an aspiring computer programmer and a web developer, my major key aspects would be to seek opportunities based the career field chosen. A graduate that had completed a certificate in mobile application and web development and has produced not just professional skills but also a self taught individual at best. I programmer willing to walk the journey of discovery with the capability of prioritising and managing projects with proficiency.
